It is stated that the basis upon which the new water deal is being made, of which Geo. F. Woolston is the head, is a proposition to purchase the other plants, but as yet only bonds have been given and Mr. Woolston has gone east to unfold his scheme to his backers. Mr. Hale it is said, is not a party to the transaction. He still retains a half interest in the Oro Fino retains a half interest in the Oro Fino by inserting a clause which gave the bish retains a half interest in the Oro Fino stream, while he owns the reservoir and Woolfolk ditch above this and the other gulches from which Helena is getting a portion of its water supply.

Should Mr. Woolston succeed in placing the stock of his new company in the east, and it is stated that T. C. Power's representative is willing to accept stock for his water rights and mains, etc., Mr. Woolston will await a proposition from the city to furnish Helena with water, by advertising for bids. Having all, or nearly all, the water mains, laterals and fire plugs in his possession, it is supposed that Mr. Woolston will consider himself in a position to demand and receive whatever he may propose to the city, to furnish water for a period of twenty years; and there are those who believe that he will agree to furnish water for the time mentioned at the munificent sum of $20,000 per year, believmunificent sum of $20,000 per year, believing that he will have no opposition.

But, on the other hand, those who claim munificent sum of $20,000 per year, believto know say that Mr. Hale will be an active and formidable competitor of Mr. Woolston, and will, if he succeeds, relay the entire city with pipe, or else buy the Woolston people out, if in the event of railure to secure the city contract, they will disband in disgust. It is also said that Woolston was and is desirous of getting a monopoly of all the water rights, ditches and everything available, thereby being the only bidder, can force the city to his own figures. For if they should not do so,

The Mysteries of the Machine Explaine in the Complaint Filed.

F. A. Prigels wants a chance to operate a game called Russian faro, which is if all reports are true, one of the surest thing games of sure thing games. Mr. Prigels applied for a license to the county treasurer, who very promptly refused to issue it, and being refused he sought the services of an attorney who filed the following complaint:

In the district court of the First judicial district for the territory of Montans, in and tory of Montana on the relation of F. A. Ingels, plaintiff, vs. Richard P. Barden, county treasurer of Lewis and Clarke, and Wm. R. Dolliver, deputy.

That on or about the 1st day of July, 1889, e said relator, desirous of running and nducting a game of faro, which he has ominated "Russian Faro," and desirous of first obtaining a license from said treasurer to conduct and carry on the same, applied to said treasurer and deputy aloresaid for a license for running said game, tendered said treasurer at the time the sum of forty dollars, as is and was required by the laws of the territory.

It is also said that should be far more true and correct to say that the church established the state than to assert that the state established the state than to assert that the state established the church; and it is merely stating a fact, as undeniable as the proposition that two and two make four, that, as regards endowment, not a shilling of the taxation of the country goes towards the support of the bishops and clergy of the English church, with the exception of army, navy and prison chaplains, who are as much state officials as officers of the army, navy or civil service.

Marriage of a Young and Well Known Helena Couple. At St. Peter's Episcopal church last even ing Edward M. Lippincott and Miss Marcia Webber were married, the Rev. F. T. Webb, officiating.
